Scout leaders trying to put scouting back into boy's lives

Canyon Boy Scout leaders, after fighting to keep Scouting alive here in recent years, are now waging a battle to get more boys involved in a program they believe is unique and challenging. "Scouting right now in Canyon is hanging on by a boot-string," according to Pat Hickman, new Scoutmaster of Troop 31, at one time a major troop in Canyon. "But, you know, we can see the light at the end of the tunnel." Other local school leaders agree Scouting in Canyon has not been a high priority group for eligible boys and their parents. "It declined quite a bit and for while it was close to folding," Richard Fulton, leader of Troop 66, said. "We've been working hard to try to pick it up again and we hope to pick it up in the future." Figures from the three scoutmasters of Canyon troops indicate about 50 boys are actively involved in Scouting, about the number which in better days were active in just one troop. Hickman, an Eagle Scout who was active in the First Methodist Church-sponsored Troop 31 when in junior high and high school, believes three reasons can be cited for the recent decline in interest in Scouting.

"I think one has been leadership," he said. "There aren't enough interested adult leaders. Second and foremost is parent apathy, and third — and people use this as the main reason — there are so many more sporting events and things to take up a person's time." Fulton and Cary Magness, master of Troop 132, agree that a good bit of the problem with scouting problem in Canyon is due to the wide variety of interesting activities available year-round for scout-age youths. "Youngsters can really do their own thing in many ways," Magness said of the activities available in town. "They have 4-H, FFA, church, summer youth programs, etc." Hickman agrees but points out that scouting "doesn't take up that much time." And, he believes it's a matter of priorities. Parents, he said, must believe their boys can gain from scouting because it's the parents who push for priorities. Hickman believes there are plenty of reasons for parents to consider scouting a high priority for their boys. "Scouting is really the only youth program in the country that teaches leadership and patriotism and things like that," he said. Magness agrees. "Even with the new program we have, we still stress character building and I think that's real important," he said. Scouting for Magness stresses patriotism, moral character and allows a boy a broad base to find himself. For more than 50 years it has been those qualities of scouting and scouting programs which have attracted hundreds of boys — now men — into scouting. B.F. Fronabarger, writing in a 1919 issue of the Randall County News stressed the value of scouting as an initial experiment with scouting began in Canyon. "We are growing old," he wrote, "when we cease to be able to enter sympathetically the lives of our young people — too (See SCOUTS, Page 13)

Compromise keeps water hike

A compromise that will spread the rate increase for water to both minimum and large volume users was quickly reached Thursday in an emergency session of the city commission.

They recinded an increase set Wednesday night and approved a proposal that will raise the minimum rate from $3 to $3.25 for the first 3,000 gallons. The next 12,000 gallons will cost users 60 cents a thousand and all water thereafter will cost 70 cents a thousand. The new rates will go into effect April 1.

The night before, the commissioners had, in an effort to reduce the effect of the rate increase to families using one meter, such as apartment dwellers, had upped the minimum rate slightly and then had set a flat rate of 70 cents a thousand gallons for all use thereafter.

Computed, that rate was higher for persons who used under 20,000 gallons a month than the rate city manager Glen Metcalf had proposed.

Contacted shortly after the Wednesday meeting by the Canyon News, Mayor Manly Bryan conceded that upping the rates for lesser use was not the intention of the commission.

"Carroll (Wilson) pointed out that we had done exactly what we didn't want to do," Bryan explained at the meeting Thursday. "That is we'd raised the rates for the lower use category."

The commissioners quickly chose from among seven proposals Metcalf had outlined for them, ranging from the original plan he presented two weeks ago through all the alternatives discussed since then.

The board voted to keep the rate increases agreed upon Wednesday for sanitation and sewer. New rates will up the trash collection charge to $4.25 from the present $1.50 a month and will increase sewer charges from $1.50 to $2.

This will make the minimum monthly bill $9.50. Under the formula set the night before, the minimum bill would have been the same, but the costs would have increased sharply for usage above the minimum.

With the flat 70 cents per thousand rate, users of 9,000 gallons would have had to pay $7.45 for water alone. Under the rate to go into effect in April, the cost for 9,000 gallons will be $6.85. Presently, the same amount costs $6.00.

For 15,000 gallons, the flat rate approved Wednesday would have cost $11.65 while under the new rate, the same amount will cost $10.45. By present rates, 15,000 gallons of water cost $8.40.

For residents who use more than 15,000 gallons a month, the rate will double from the present 35 cents a thousand to 70 cents a thousand gallons.

Metcalf has pushed for the escalating rate to encourage water conservation and argued against the flat rate set Wednesday by commissioners.

The newest rate will produce $342,000 in water revenue next year, Metcalf estimates. The flat rate would have produced considerably more, or $356,750.

Present rates bring in $265,000 a year, which Metcalf says is not sufficient to meet both operating expenses and provide for the capital improvements needed in the system.

When he first asked for a rate increase, he proposed a five year program of capital improvements for water, sewer and sanitation.

The rates approved are scaled down from Metcalf's original requests and may not provide the revenue to make all the improvements he requested.

"We'll have to go to a priority approach, making improvements as they come up rather than on a definite program," Metcalf said. "I just hope that some of these things can wait that long."

Two new wells, costing an estimated $60,000 each, will have to be drilled during the coming year, he said.

The commissioners cut a dollar from his request on sewer charges. The new rate will provide for increased operating costs but will not allow for any capital improvements, Metcalf said.

"When the time comes to expand our sewer treatment plant, we'll have to look at other sources of revenue," he said. "That (See WATER, Page 13)

Annual banquet due Tuesday

America's bicentennial will be the theme and a Britisher will deliver the keynote address Tuesday night for the annual Canyon Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The banquet begins at 7:30 p.m. at the West Texas State University east cafeteria.

More than 300 persons are expected to attend the banquet, which will feature red, white and blue decorations and patriotic entertainment.

A highlight of the evening will be the naming of Canyon's Citizen of the Year for 1975.

London cinematographer and writer Geoffrey Bryson will be featured speaker at the banquet.

Chamber Manager Roland Black said Bryson, who is to be in Texas to film a special, will present a humor speech.

A giant bicentennial birthday cake, made by Canyon High Student John King, will be featured in the entertainment portion of the banquet.

The New Day Singers, a West Texas State University choral group, will present patriotic music under the direction of Dr. Hugh Sanders.

The women's division of the chamber is responsible for decorations for the affair.

Bryson, who is in charge of documentary programs for the British Broadcasting Co., is to be in Texas this week and for much of the month to produce a one-hour special television program on the state.

He has produced more than 250 documentaries during his 20 years with the BBC and has won every major award offered in his country for excellence in radio and television as host of several popular program series.

Bryson writes most of his productions and is a frequent contributor to the British humor magazine, Punch. He is also author of several books.

In 1962, Bryson was the first foreigner ever invited to lecture at the University of Moscow where he chaired a class on cinematography.

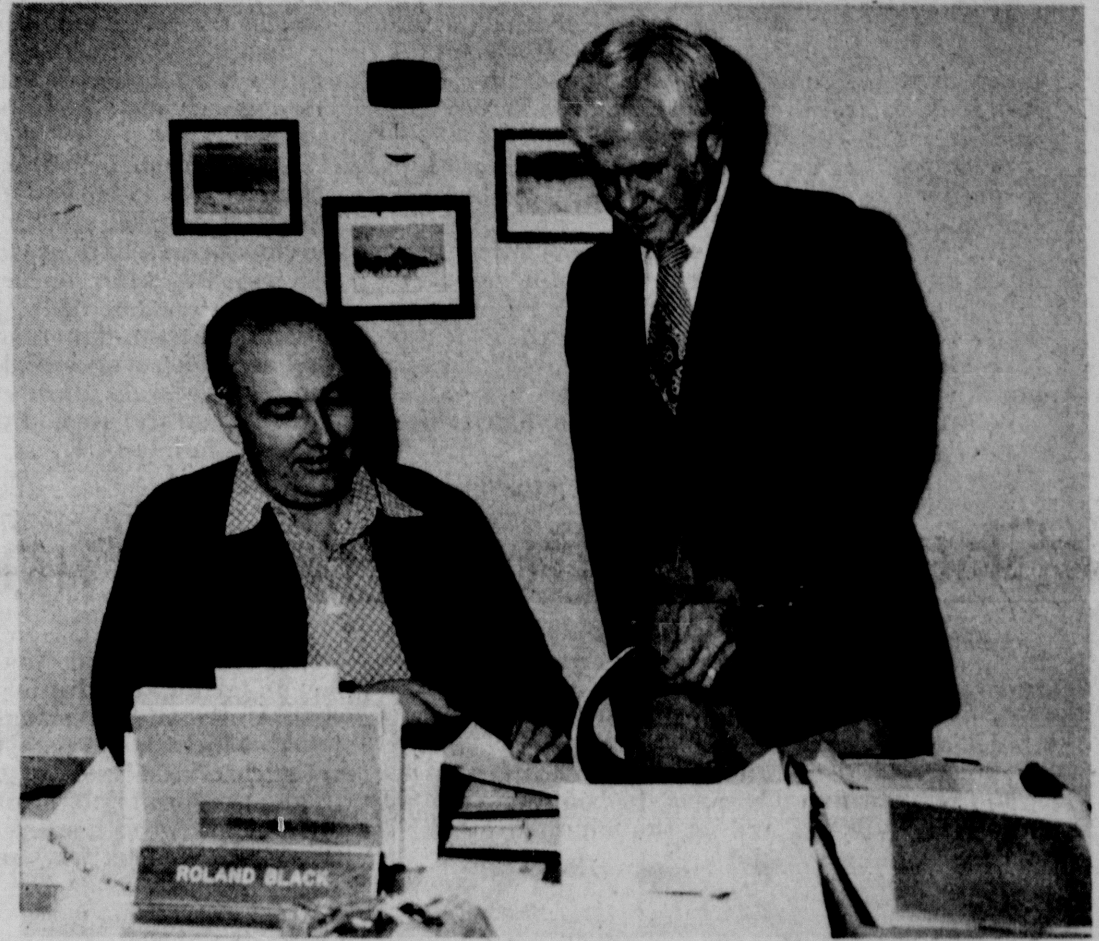

He is the father of three sets of twins and two other children. The menu for the banquet will feature roast beef, baked potato and other trimmings.

Chamber of commerce directors met in closed session in early January to select the 1975 Citizen of the Year. Outgoing President Weldon Trice will present the Outstanding Citizen honor.

Retiring directors of the chamber who will be honored during the evening include Woody Pond, Jerry Williams, Cordell Huddleston and Gene Glazener.

Current directors are Weldon Trice, Lois Rice, Phil Langen, Ray Grimes, Ken Thompson, Bill Hunter, George Stevens, Richard Tung, Reggie Reeves, Don Johnston, Dr. Jim Hanson and John Childs.

Johnston is president of the chamber and Langen is first vice-president.

Canyon Chamber of Commerce President Don Johnston, seated, and past President Weldon Trice, discuss last-minute plans for the Tuesday night bicentennial theme Chamber Banquet which is to begin at 7 in the West Texas State University cafeteria. Canyon's Citizen of the Year for 1975 will be named at the banquet.

City business growing, sales tax returns show

Canyon sales, as measured by the amount of sales tax returned to the city, lag behind both other area cities and cities of similar size.

But sales are growing faster here than in any other city in the area, including Amarillo, measured by the percentage of sales tax increase over the last several years.

In 1975, the city received $109,409.61 in sales taxes. This amounts to one penny on every dollar, collected by Canyon merchants. Canyon sales rank sixth place among ten Panhandle cities of various sizes and are 21st out of 27 Texas cities of similar size.

In the Panhandle, Amarillo is the leader, with $4,483,750.25 returned last year in sales tax. Pampa, Hereford, Dumas and Perryton all outrank Canyon in sales.

Dumas, which according to the last census figures was only slightly larger than Canyon, collects more than double the amount of sales tax, receiving $235,315.87 last year.

Childress and Tulia, both listed as having less than 6,000 residents, nearly equaled Canyon's sales. Childress collected $106,584.37 in sales tax in 1975 while Tulia collected $93,778.51.

Canyon's problem is Amarillo, it is frequently said.

"Any city our size located next to a large city is going to see its business drained off to the larger city," commissioner Jim Christopher said.

At a recent Chamber of Commerce town meeting, a local resident estimated that as much as 60 percent of potential business in Canyon goes to Amarillo.

Roland Black, director of the Canyon Chamber, however, (See TAX, Page 13)

George Stevens, who has been with the Canyon Post Office for over 21 years, has accepted an appointment to serve as Postmaster for the Denver City office. See Story page 11.

Train warnings to be installed at Santa Fe 4th St. crossing

Warning devices will be installed at the 4th Street crossing of the Santa Fe Railroad tracks in west Canyon within the next six months, City Manager Glen Metcalf said last week.

"They're about two years late," said Clarence Cosby, a Canyon man seriously injured at the crossing two years ago. "It'll save somebody's life most likely."

Metcalf said the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost for installing the new warning devices and the Santa Fe Railroad will pay for the other 10 per cent of the cost. No local funds will be required for the installation.

He said he was informed last week that funding from the federal government has been approved and construction can begin within about six months.

Metcalf said he doesn't know whether the devices will be of the blinking-light variety or the cross-arm variety.

"Any kind of blinker light would be good," Cosby told The News, "but the kind with the arms would be the best."

Cosby said warning devices at the crossing "have been desperately needed ever since the town was just a little spot in the road."

Cosby was driving in a car north across the tracks in the early afternoon on March 25, 1974, when his car was broadsided by a Santa Fe diesel engine. The impact of the accident whirled Cosby's car around and into a telephone pole on the north side of the tracks.

He was hospitalized for a lengthy period at an Amarillo hospital. Cosby said he still used the crossing but "I try to observe the stop signs carefully."

City officials installed a stop sign at the crossing shortly after Cosby's wreck.

At least one other major wreck has occurred at the crossing in the past five years and Cosby said he knows of eight or nine near-misses or accidents not involving injuries at the crossing.

City commissioners will be officially informed of the action by the federal government and the railroad during a regular meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at city hall.

Other items scheduled for commission consideration include a petition from businessmen on the south side of 4th Avenue between 23rd and 24th Streets. The businessmen are asking that the city limit parking on that side of the street during business hours.

Chief of Police Al Stewart is to make a report on the petition and his recommendations.

A public hearing is scheduled during the meeting on city granting of a cable television franchise to T.D. Austin of Amarillo.

A brotherly farewell was extended last week to Larry McLendon, seated, a local Department of Public Safety officer transferred to Houston, by his Little Brother Dee Haws, 15. McLendon and Haws have participated in the Big Brothers of Canyon program three years. (See story on page 3)

Political races are still cool

The 1976 political season is off to a slow start in Randall County with only two days remaining before the deadline for filing for county or district offices.

With more than a month remaining before the deadline for filing for election to local offices, only city incumbents have announced they will seek re-election.

Deadline for filing for county or district or state political office is midnight Monday.

At the district level, State Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo has announced he will seek re-election to a second two-year term. No other candidate has filed for election to the post.

Judge George Dowlen of the 181st District Court has also filed for election to his seat. Dowlen was appointed district judge by Gov. Dolph Briscoe in December 1974 and took office Jan. 1, 1975. He also has no opposition.

At the county level, Marion Bruse, veteran Democratic Party county chairman, has filed for re-election to his office. No opponent has filed.

Incumbent County Commissioner Jim Fletcher, who represents a precinct in the northeast part of the county, has filed for re-election and has not drawn an opponent.

Incumbent commissioner Paul Lindsey of Canyon has declared (See RACES, Page 13)

Reality and the postal service

Let's face it. While it is imminently satisfying to argue that American capitalists could better handle the U.S. mails than can the U.S. Postal Service, there is something quixotic about such argument. Because, practically speaking, the de-bureaucratization of the postal service is as remote as balancing the national budget or finding funds dumped down the social security sump hole. A recent exchange of letters between President Ford and Time Inc. Chairman Andrew Heiskell points out the kind of thinking which, given the chance, will do in the nation's press. The question to President Ford seems to be whether the nation's taxpayers should provide funds to hold down what he anticipates as future necessary postal price increases. Ford eliminates himself and his branch of government from any responsibility for the unbelievable wage hikes granted postal workers in the last few years, apparently intending that the taxpayer — mystically separated from the "user" of the postal system — is somehow so sacred as to be immune from the kind of rip-off perpetrated by the wage hikes while it is very nearly all right for the user to take the rip-off without recourse. Heiskell's point is that the postal system was designed as a function of government to provide a channel for the free flow of information. Thus, he argues, it is certainly the taxpayer's responsibility to foot the bill for postal services. Ford's argument is a cop-out. Would he advocate, we wonder, that only welfare program users foot the bill for the welfare system? Or that only those who fight wars foot the bill for the defense budget? Heiskell's point, alternatively, is at least historically sound. True, he and we argue ostensibly from a special interest viewpoint. But, the argument that drastic planned increases in postal rates will damage the free flow of magazines, newspapers and newsletters and that the impact of that damage will be felt by every literate American, seems compelling reason to re-examine the President's current policy. We quote from Heiskell to make this final point: "... the President suggests 'it is reasonable to expect' further increases 'as long as they follow other general price increases in the economy.' The lamentable fact is that present and scheduled postal rate increases are grossly out of line with past or predicted general price hikes. Time Incorporated's second-class postage rates have increased 146 percent over the past five years. If the already scheduled rate increases take effect, that figure would jump to an increase of 389 percent in July 1979. And without funding for extended phasing, which the President opposes, that 389 percent increase will become effective this year. For a monthly magazine like the Atlantic, the comparable rate increases would be 100 percent and 270 percent. For a typical weekly newspaper, the percentages of increase are 140 percent and 680 percent. By any index of prices, such hikes cry out for comparison to those that the OPEC cartel has imposed upon us." — C.W.

Polarization leads to trouble

The them-versus-us approach to funding of new school facilities for Canyon district children can lead only to future troubles, even should the proposed $5.5 million bond issue pass on Feb. 17. Few issues stir more natural resentments than those issues associated with schools. It doesn't take much prodding to turn a bond issue election into a civil war, a term we've heard banded about recently in connection with the local bond issue. Such prodding is almost natural when two groups, no matter how small or large, set about to polarize the community. The avoidance or reduction of polarization is a much more difficult task, but a sensible and necessary one in Canyon prior to and after Feb. 17 if the district is to remain a unit dedicated to the education of children rather than two units dedicated to thwarting the needs of each other's children. Polarization can be reduced in the district principally by keeping the central issue in focus — that is, the need for new schools. Given that Canyon schools are overcrowded, simple logic dictates that some issues need not be issues unless the desire is to split the community. Population projection figures, for example, indicate the schools are needed and common sense indicates schools should be built where children are located. Common sense says, too, that for a good number of citizens, the tax burden from city, county, school and hospital district, state and federal governments is becoming an albatross with which they cannot cope. Opinions differ on how many and what size schools should be built. The point is that there seem to be enough legitimate issues to keep everybody hopping for a good period of time. False issues, those which can only serve to split the community, are additional burdens worthy only of disregard. — C.W.

Shelton attitude refreshing

By his comments in a last-week interview, Amarillo cattleman Jack Shelton presents the possibility of a breath of badly needed fresh air for the West Texas State University campus. Shelton says he thinks it's his role as chairman of the board of regents, and the role of the board itself, to set policy, oversee things and let the administrators administer.

That such an attitude has already had a favorable impact on the administration was proven last November when University President Lloyd Watkins blew the whistle which should have been blown a long time ago on the costs associated with university athletics. The appropriate stand of the regents expressed by Shelton last week heralds a less-shackled brand of leadership. We look forward to it. — C.W.

An aid to poll-watchers

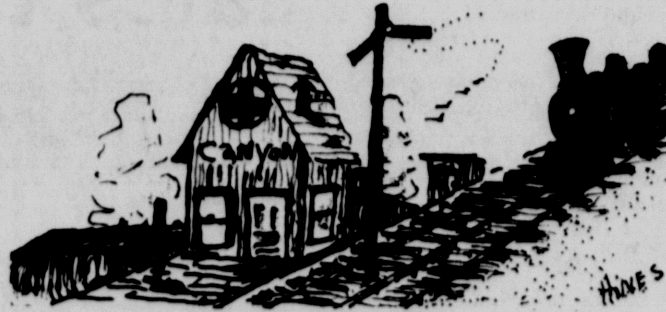

Two Canadian psychologists have completed a study which could be useful in predicting the outcome of next November's Presidential election. Their study of leadership indicates the lowest leadership marks in their study group went to those who spoke infrequently but made valuable suggestions.

The two psychologists found that if a person talks more than his co-workers, he'll be thought of as a leader even though what he says isn't helpful or useful. All other things being equal, then, we predict it'll be Hubert Humphrey in the driver's seat in January 1977. — C.W.

Bicentennial echoes of the past

By KEITH HINES August 19, 1898 was a beautiful day in Canyon City, Texas. Fishing was good in the Tierra-Blanca creek. Tom Lair had planned to fish that day with his friends but he knew history was in the making. So he stayed at home and sure enough at 4 p.m. the first engine on the Santa Fe Railroad arrived. Tom's home at that time was just north and west of the present depot and he watched every move from the front porch. Later, his brother Lewis was employed by the Wells Fargo Express Company and because of his superior marksmanship many times he was assigned as special guard when a large shipment of gold was moving. Lewis was one of the preferred runs as messenger between Newton, Kansas and Clovis, N.M. when he retired. For many years Lewis would have the operator at Canadian or Pampa call Canyon and have Tom meet the train for a short visit while the train stopped here. Then, another brother, worked for the railroad many years. With the coming of the steam engine, plenty of good water was probable. One of the first wells dug by the railroad was on the creek about where the Canyon Creek Apartments are now located. Water was pumped to a wooden water tower, just west of the present depot. As bigger and more steam engines were used on the Santa Fe more and better water was needed. In 1912, two wells were dug 400 feet deep and plenty of good soft water was produced. It was so pure and soft, it could be used in the engine boilers without treatment. For many years Canyon was a regular water stop in both directions. These wells were pumped with steam pumps and many times were pumped full speed for 24 hours or longer without lowering the water level. At that time a concrete pump house was built which still stands. Later a 90 foot steel water tank was built to provide more pressure for the larger engines. Earl Sanders came to Canyon with his parents in 1922, walking track for his father, inspecting several miles of track each day, 7 days per week. In 1924 he transferred here as pumper, pumping water until the pump station was closed in 1934 at which time he moved to the Dumas district and pumped until his retirement. Maintenance was a necessity. One of the most famous section foremen was Mote Sanders. He and his family moved from Friona to Canyon in 1922; at that time Canyon had three section crews, one east, one south and one west. Mote had charge of Canyon yards and west about

Collins' stance a curious one

By CARROLL WILSON

Stan Collins' call for the resignation Tuesday night of Supt. Jerry Jacobs and, in fact, the change in tone of Collins' campaign against the upcoming school bond election are at once curious events when viewed against the backdrop of the events of the last month, and not particularly productive when viewed against the backdrop of problems facing Canyon schools. Collins must have learned long ago in the business world that the best defense is a good offense and his speech at Tuesday night's board meeting and pre-meeting press conference served at least momentarily to chase from the minds of many the facts of Collins' business connections. Collins says, yes, he is partners with Stanley Marsh III, an Amarillo big businessman, television station owner and husband of an heiress of the mammoth Bush Estate which has enumerable acres of Randall County land in trust. And, yes, Collins says, he is also a partner with Bill Adams, formerly president of Canyon's First National Bank, who was at one time anything but friendly with Jerry Jacobs. But, no, Collins says, his connections with these two partners has had absolutely no influence on his decision last fall to wage full-scale war on the proposed school bond issues after having lived in silence in Canyon for several months. Collins has filed a sworn statement that his business connections do not influence his negative stand. While we assume, because there are no facts to the contrary, that Collins is truthful in his statements concerning his business dealings, and while we know he expects us to assume he's honest in this effort, we find it a bit self-serving of him to value that assumption when it is favorable to him but refuse to grant the same assumption of honesty to Jacobs and the school district's architect. We assume Jacobs and the school architect to be honest. Collins' figures presented Tuesday night concerning the construction costs of Lubbock's Nat Williams Elementary School certainly are no proof otherwise. A sense of fair play, if not a little logic, dictates that while a comparison of the quality, cost and value of two navel oranges is a relatively simple operation, it is no easy thing to compare two schools in two different towns of vastly different populations, population make-ups, and financial bases. Certainly, the facts are not all in on exactly what Nat Williams Elementary School is, what it was designed to be and what one could expect it to cost were it built in Canyon by Amarillo area contractors. Several school board members are to travel to Lubbock this week to get those facts. But, we suspect, based on square footage figures and without contradicting the comments in the above paragraphs, even when the facts are gathered on the Lubbock school, comparison with the planned Canyon elementary school will be only difficult and crude. All of which is curious business when one but remembers that it was Collins' forces which won the Dec. 9 school bond issue election. That Collins is waging a campaign as if he were a man on the defensive when in reality he led the forces which won the last election is in itself something to ponder. Collins' frontal assault approach on spurious issues is not particularly productive and tends to minimize more legitimate issues which served to defeat the bond issue in the first place. Battling over issues — like the need for a high school as opposed to a junior high school, or the location for an elementary school, or the de-annexation of certain school lands, or, simply, the projected increase in taxes — is one thing. A pugilistic stand centered on personalities is altogether another. The former, if conducted in the proper spirit, has in this country been found generally to foster some consensus opinion or at least some compromise. It has also served to minimize bitterness, an all too frequent companion of ad hominem debate. The latter serves virtually no end, save perhaps the satiation of rudimentary passions.

Lack of vision destructive

By ANN BROWN Probably only one factor in human relationships is more destructive than lack of communication: lack of vision. In 1776, the king of England lacked the vision to see that his arrogant, dictatorial policies would eventually deprive Britain of the richest source of revenue on the globe. Our current government leaders seem blind to the fact that their policy of oppressing productive, law-abiding citizens, and subsidizing the nonproductive and criminal types will destroy the former, and multiply the latter. (Then who will pay their fat salaries?) Isaac Ehrlich of the University of Chicago made a study of crime statistics by state. According to the statistics he gathered, he deduced that each execution prevents 17 murders. It takes blindness indeed not to see that the lives of 17 innocent people are of more value than one killer. The soft-hearted judges, bleeding-heart juries, and psychologists and lawyers, who excuse and defend murderers for hire, lack the vision to see that they or some member of their families may be the killer's next victim. Who would deny that anyone who steals, robs, rapes, or kills has to be more or less insane. Is that any reason to set him free — or to force unwilling taxpayers to spend millions for his defense, or support him for the rest of his life? The gun-control advocates lack the vision to see that any form of federal gun control would merely disarm the law-abiding citizens, and leave them at the mercy of the criminal element. What reason have we to believe the person who will not obey the laws against robbery, rape, and murder, would respect laws forbidding securing a gun? If he can't buy it, he can always steal it. Irresponsible, negligent, and abusive parents lack the vision to realize that if they live to be old, they may one day be as dependent on their children as the little ones have ever been on them. Careless, cruel, and sadistic teachers forget that students who are victims of their neglect, ridicule, or sadism may one day be. The patrolman who checks them on the highway. The mechanic who services their cars. The chef who prepares their food. The Internal Revenue agent, who audits their tax returns. The pharmacist who fills their prescriptions. The judge with power of life or death over them, their property, or loved ones. The surgeon on whose skill their lives depend, or The vandal who slashes their tires, heaves a brick through their windows, or sets fire to their houses. There are teachers who dare not park their cars near the school building. Then there are other teachers who leave their cars unlocked, and the only evidence their students have been near them is a box of candy, a bouquet of flowers, or an anonymous poem expressing appreciation the student is too shy to express in person. Anyone who takes up smoking, drinking, or any other form of drug abuse has to be terribly

Genealogical society explores reference aids during meeting

The newly organized High Plains Genealogical Society had twenty-nine members for its first official meeting. Under the leadership of president, Alan Gabehart, the group was given explanations on how to effectively use the Cornette Library at West Texas State University.

A prepared bibliography containing basic reference materials, selected family histories, miscellaneous statistical and historical records as well as special collections of interest to the genealogist was presented with some explanations of interest to the genealogist.

A guided and instructional tour of the library followed. The reference room was presented with special selections being chosen for group viewing.

The document section was visited and it was noted that WTSU has the largest and most complete collection of such documents of any college library in Texas.

The special collections area of the library was visited. The microfilms of the Draper Manuscript Collection of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin were discussed. Two of these were used in demonstrations on the microfilm readers.

Joan Reynolds, vice-president and program chairman, discussed programs and program requests. Dr. and Mrs. C.C. Callarman will be in charge of the February program at which time the following questions will be discussed: Problems you have encountered in genealogical work, problems you anticipate others will have, unusual ways of gathering information and unusual sources.

By LORENA MILLER

Fatherless boys receive guidance and companionship which have a definite bearing on their growth toward manhood through the Canyon branch of the Big Brothers of America.

After three years companionship with a "big brother," Dee Haws is this weekend saying farewell to a friend and companion who shared his first experience of airplane flight, who taught him the safety rules for guns and took him on hunting trips, and who has been a "big brother" in molding his young life.

Dee Haws, at age 15, has three older brothers, Rob, 16, Wade, 17, and Dub, 21. The boys were deprived of a father's love and guidance in 1970 when the father died from a coronary attack.

In remembering the boy's father, Nell Haws (their mother) recalls that "he was very close to the boys and had the boys with him in the farm and ranch operations from the time that school was out in the afternoons."

After her husband's death, Nell Haws investigated the possibility of placing her three youngest sons on the "Big Brothers" program in Amarillo. At the time Canyon did not have such a program. The Big Brother Association in Amarillo suggested that such a program was being considered for Canyon.

The three Haws' sons, Wade, Rob, and Dell, were placed with "Big Brothers" in Canyon and were the first on the local program here. On the program, notes Mrs. Haws, the boys must give up their "big brother" when they reach the age of 16 so that younger boys in need of guidance may have the continued services of a "big brother."

"At one time," recalls Mrs. Haws, "it seemed like each of my boys had three big brothers, because when one of their Big Brothers would come over to take one of the boys to some activity, they would always invite the other two along."

Her own commendation of the program is enhanced by the fact that the three Haws' sons, who have been on the Big Brothers program, have related that "some day they would also like to serve as Big Brothers."

Dee, the youngest of the Haws boys, has had three years with his "Big Brother" and has a special affection for his "little brother," too. His "Big Brother" in the local program is Larry McLendon, who has been stationed in the Canyon area for 5 years with the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Big Brother" Larry has recently received a promotion and will be leaving for Houston where he has been assigned to the criminal law enforcement division of the DPS.

McLendon and his wife, Bonnie, and their two children, Carl, 9, and Heather, 1, are moving to the Houston area during the weekend. Larry will have an advanced training session in Austin before permanently settling in the Houston area with the DPS.

For Larry McLendon, his role as a "Big Brother" has been a reminder of his own youth. His own introduction to the program came some years ago when, as a university student, he was assigned to prepare a public service announcement about the "Big Brothers of America."

While visiting in Houston recently, McLendon noticed a billboard which said that there are "947 boys waiting for Big Brothers."

"The shortage there was in Houston," noted McLendon, "but there is also a shortage of Big Brothers right here in Canyon, and funds for continuation of the program are being sought."

McLendon further explained the local program which aids fatherless boys in the community. An executive board oversees the program with John Childs as board president, and a number of local individuals serving on a match and placement committee to place those with similar interests and backgrounds together as "brother teams."

Funds for the Big Brothers program go toward postage, forms and office supplies. Only one individual receives a stipend for his services to the local Big Brothers program. At the salaried position, Ron Cowart, handles applications and screening and serves as an executive director for the Big Brothers program here. He is also the county's juvenile officer and in that capacity often comes across youths who are in definite need of a guiding hand.

At present $1,500 is needed to sustain the "Big Brothers" program locally throughout 1976, according to board chairman, John Childs. It is estimated that 50 local boys, between the ages of 7-15, are in need of the program and it is hoped that at least ten little brothers will be placed by the end of the year.

Funds for sustenance of the program may be presented to the board chairman, Childs, or other officers of the board including: Jackie McAlpin, vice president; Carroll Wilson, secretary; or Dave Corley, treasurer. Funds may also be contributed through the executive director, Ron Cowart.

The Canyon Big Brothers have been organized locally for three years and presently there are five "brother teams" in existence. It is expected, however, that the program will continue to grow with an estimated need for placement of at least 30 little brothers in the next few years.

Funds for the program are raised through individual and business donations, but successful operation of the program depends on those who can devote service time as "big brothers."

Letters To The Editor

Stan Collins' school charges deserve adequate research

To the Editor:

The Canyon News and other news media have tried to present an objective view of the school bond situation. However their example has not been followed by all involved. Unfortunately during the Tuesday Jan. 27th school board meeting, the one-sided approach again was much in evidence. Pictures and school pamphlets of the Nat Williams elementary school of Lubbock were presented by Mr. Stan Collins. Mr. Cantrell, the CISD architect, and the "For" group (mostly from South Amarillo) immediately assumed the school must be of cheap tiltup slab construction. The discussion showed the absolute loyalty of the South Amarillo group in tearing down everything and supporting without reservation the school administration who in their turn support anyone for their cause.

I called Mr. Messersmith of the architect firm responsible for the Lubbock school project and talked with him about the school. It is built of conventional brick on 8-inch block walls with steel supporting beams and a combination cafeteria gym area. Whether the Lubbock school would suit Canyon needs can only be determined by further investigation. What is important here is the demonstrated lack of approaching problems on an openminded basis.

The $5.5 million bond election does not resolve the issue of educating Amarillo expansion. It is just a political move attempting to receive votes from those voters who oppose a new Amarillo High School; add the buy-off of the senior citizens, and those votes of the highly organized South Amarillo group, then hope for our normal mid-February blizzard to keep the farmers and senior citizens at home and bet on winning the election.

However, if there is yet a larger NO majority vote, then support will be given to Mr. Wick's compromise position and will do much to pressure the Board to close the credibility and communication gap.

The school trustees could also help by following the example of Congress and exclude the "Hail Caesar" type of demonstrations given by the standing, applauding, cheering, support of the administration in Board meetings by the "For" group. It is certainly ego boosting to some members of the Board and school administration, but it is not conducive to problem solving in the democratic way.

Thank you, Alvin Kuhlman

Get back to the issue that schools needed

Dear Carroll,
Let's set the record straight! With regard to the proposed new schools... I have heard the phrase "Why should Canyon provide schools for Amarillo?" too many times. The City of Canyon and Canyon Independent School District have two separate boundaries and two separate taxing units. It would be more correct to say that Amarillo has been educating Canyon children because Canyon Independent School District includes part of Amarillo including Washington Street and the Canyon E-Way where some of the biggest taxpayers to the school district are located. Whether we accept or reject the new bond issue, let's do it fairly and for the right reason. Let's also remember it is not a school board election... that comes later... we will be voting to provide or not provide schools for the children within the entire School District.

Marcia Durden

CHS facilities termed poor

Dear Carroll,

One of the things that I hope the voters will take into consideration in the upcoming school bond election is the deplorable situation of our present athletic facilities.

A person needs only to study the question to see that our chilren are doomed to a "second rate" athletic future if needed improvements are not forthcoming. If one thinks that I am stretching the point, he should ask any boy or girl who currently participates in athletics at Canyon High or Canyon Jr. High about the present condition. Our children deserve the best we can give them. The parents in other towns similar to Canyon have made the necessary sacrifices for their children — we must do the same.

Sincerely, David Kent

Comment draws criticism

Dear Carroll:

The Rape Crisis Service has had numerous calls about a remark allegedly made by an elected official at a recent public meeting.

Thanks for comment

Dear Carroll:

I received a copy today of your Sunday article concerning the forthcoming campaign.

Your warm statement of support is deeply appreciated.

It is my hope that my future actions will merit your continuing support.

My warmest personal regards. Sincerely, Jack Hightower

The remark, "You rape them, we scrape them," was at best a tasteless remark and at worst a manifestation of insensitive sexism at its worst.

We as a community group working to change attitudes about rape and reduce incidence of this crime against women are appalled that such a remark would be made by a responsible person in a public meeting.

To imply that rape could be dealt with in so casual a manner is an affront to a concerned citizenry.

Sincerely yours, Amarillo Rape Crisis Service Board of Directors Dr. Mary Sheldon, Amarillo

Double ring nuptial service unites couple at St. Mary's

St. Mary's Catholic Church at Umbarger was the setting for the double ring nuptials Friday afternoon, January 30, which united Miss Arlene Kay Koch and Richard James Paschel in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Alice Koch of Umbarger and Max H. Koch of Monroe, Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Paschel of Vega are parents of the bridegroom.

Monsignor Matthew Schafle officiated at the marriage rites. The church altar was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and large white mums with the side altars featuring white puritan chrysanthemum plants trimmed in white and emerald green.

Mrs. Don Dolle served as organist and soloist was Mrs. Larry Wagner who presented the Twelfth of Never, Wedding Song and One Hand, One Heart. Robert Friemel was lector and R.E. Friemel served as lay minister with Steve, Jimmy and Freddie Friemel and Louis Paschel, the bridegroom's brother, bearing alcyotes. Photographer was Robert Jacobson of Adrian and wedding guests were registered by the bride's sister, Mrs. Gerald Doran.

Escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Gerald Doran, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza over a fitted taffeta bodice with a fitted empire bodice, Victorian neckline and yoke with brief puff sleeves. Alencon lace appliques decorated the bodice front, neckline and sleeves. Her A-line skirt was also decorated with lace appliques and swept to back fullness ending in a sheer chapel train. Miniature buttons and loops completed the back closing. She wore a matching candlelight Juliet style headpiece of Alencon lace enhanced by seed pearls with a tiered veil edged in lace cascading to a waist length. The wedding dress and veil, which were used by her older sister, Marilyn Doran, was used as "something borrowed" for the bride. She also had the traditional wedding garter for "something new" and "blue" and carried a prayer book of her mother's which had been carried during the mother's wedding.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of silk flowers including white gardenias, white roses and stephanotis tied with candlelight and green streamers. Green starflowers, highlighted with pearls, accented the bouquet.

Sherie Detten served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sisters, Janet Paschel and Rita Paschel. The bride attendants wore princess styled meadow green dresses featuring empire waist styling with tie belts. The dresses featured lace bibs, stand up collars and long sleeves terminating in Juliet cuffs with wide ruffles completing the skirts. They carried single stems of large white mums with clusters of green starflowers in the center and ties of green and white streamers. Feathered white mums and baby's breath were worn for matching hairpieces by the bride attendants.

Arnie Artho, cousin of the bride, served as best man. Groomsmen were Ralph Paschel of Vega, a brother of the bridegroom, and Floyd Koch of Umbarger, a brother of the bride. Ushers were Howard Koch of Dumas, a brother of the bride, and Lawrence Brorman of Hereford, an uncle of the bridegroom.

St. Mary's Parish Hall was the setting for the wedding supper reception following the marriage ceremony. The buffet supper was prepared by Mrs. Sylvester Batenhorst, Mrs. Dennis Brandt, Mrs. Lee Haschke, Mrs. R.E. Friemel and Mrs. R.O. Friemel.

Mrs. Lawrence Jentzen prepared the wedding cake which was served by Miss Margaret Paschel and Mrs. Benny Stallings, the bridegroom's sisters. Attending the bride's table were Misses Juanita Hartman, Shirley Lindeman and Angeline Haschke.

The wedding and reception was concluded with a dance featuring music by the Young Country Sounds. The bride changed to a pantsuit with dark green slacks and a matching sweater top for travel wear as the couple took a wedding trip to Arkansas, where they will visit the bridegroom's grandparents who were unable to attend the wedding rites.

After February 7, the couple will establish their home at Rt. 1, Hereford. The bride is a 1975 graduate of Canyon High School and prior to the marriage was employed with the Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon. A 1973 graduate of Vega High School, the bridegroom is employed with his father's farming operations and is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

The Most Revolutionary Thing In Sight!

The Electric Heat Pump

The heat pump is the most revolutionary thing in sight for providing complete comfort in the home.

The heat pump is a heating system and a cooling system both in one. Seasonal changes go unnoticed, one thermostat setting is all it takes.

The heat pump is a wise use of electricity. It provides more energy than it uses. Why? Because the heat pump squeezes warmth out of outside air, even at freezing temperatures and converts it to cozy warmth in the home.

The heat pump. A revolutionary heating system for today's modern, comfortable home. Of course, it's electric.

Strengthening family ties object of city conference

A communitywide Family Conference designed to strengthen the family ties of local residents through a concerned effort has been set for Friday evening and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Warr of Oklahoma City, who have been engaged in family oriented conferences for the past 11 years, will be conducting the special non-denominational conference sessions here.

Approximately 20 couples will be visiting here to staff the messages, workshops and home meetings which are all a part of the Family Conference weekend.

Home meetings are scheduled Friday evening, Feb. 6, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in homes throughout the community. The informal discussions will be led by a visiting conference team as they share insights into their own pilgrimages of faith.

The general community conferences are set for Saturday to be held at Canyon Junior High School with registration beginning at 8 a.m. Conference fee will be $3 which includes the noon luncheon, various study materials and intermission periods. The day-long sessions are set to dismiss at 5 p.m.

Provisions have been made to care for preschool children at the facilities of First Baptist Church and Calvary Baptist Church in Canyon. Children in first through sixth grades will be cared for at First Baptist Church. Parents are asked to provide a sack lunch for their child. Various other churches in the city will also be providing child care, so check with your local church. The child care services will be available Friday evening and all day Saturday during the conference.

While parents are involved in the home meetings Friday evening, junior high through college age are to have a coffee house at the Activities Center ballroom. The coffee house will open at 7:30 p.m. and will have entertainment provided by area youth and a discussion to be led by Sam Mathai and Fred Luke, an engineer from Seattle, Washington.

May Day set

Pleasantview Home Demonstration Club discussed tentative plans for the upcoming May Day luncheon at their meeting Jan. 28 in the home of Mrs. John Jennings.

Mrs. Cristler Crain conducted the business meeting and was selected as the club's nominee for delegate to the District Meeting in Perryton March 25.

Club members participated in games of "88" during the afternoon for the program on recreation. Next meeting of the club will be a Valentine luncheon Feb. 11 at the Allen Downing home beginning at 12 noon.

City library due to move

The city library will move to spacious new quarters in the civic complex next week if the last delivery of furniture arrives this weekend as scheduled.

The shelves are scheduled to be delivered today, city manager Glen Metcalf said. Originally, all the library furniture was to have been delivered by Jan. 15, but arrival has been delayed several times.

When moving day does come, plans now are for volunteers from the Friends of the Library to help box up books and city employees will transfer them.

The move by the library will complete occupancy at the new civic complex. An open house is planned later this spring to show off the new facilities.

sion Saturday will open at 9 a.m. with a message on "Financial Responsibility" for junior high through adult ages. The message on "financial responsibility" will be presented by Jim and Norma Kennedy, who are in the computer service business and parents of four children.

"The Balanced Christian Life" will be the message topic of Gene and Irma Warr, head of the Gene Warr Foundation in Oklahoma City, who have conducted family life conferences throughout the United States and abroad. The Warrs, parents of two children, will also present a message for married couples on the "Role and Responsibilities of Husband and Wife."

Workshops and special messages for youth will include: "Communicating on a Date," "The Kind of Husband a Godly Girl Looks For," "The Kind of Wife a Godly Boy Looks For," "Sex and the Single Boy/Girl," and "Dating and Marriage."

Adult workshops will explore: "Disciplining Children," "How To Build Character Into Children," "How To Know The Will of God," "The Facts About Fear, Anxiety, and Tension," "The Facts About Anger and Bitterness," "How To Harness Small Group Dynamics," "How To Strengthen Family Communications," "Setting Goals and Managing Time," "Releasing Insights on Suffering and Trials," and "Creative Insights on Life For the Formerly Married."

A group of laymen from several states and numerous denominations will be in Canyon at their own expense to share their discoveries in the topic areas previously mentioned. Dr. Edwin Low, local conference chairman, has been assisted in local planning and arrangements by the following individuals: Jim Hancock, pastor of First Baptist Church; Jim Brown, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church; Marcus Adair of Faith Chapel; Ron Martin, pastor of Faith Chapel; Rene Heil, director of the Faith Bible Student Center at WT; Dr. Art Johnson, professor at West Texas State; Woody Pond, Randall County Judge; Bill Webb, Baptist Student Union director; Cliff Longest, Randall County Sheriff; Al Steward, Canyon Police Chief; Harold Mann, coordinator of Randall County Juvenile Department; Weldon Trice, dean of student affairs at WT; and John Childs, First National Bank.

Basic education classes to begin

Adult basic education classes are again being sponsored by the Canyon Independent School District for those individuals desiring to work toward a GED high school equivalency certificate.

Recognition for perfect attendance during the Adult Basic Education Classes in Canyon was extended to Macon Fennen by Mrs. John Childs, instructor. Mrs. Fennen, the mother of a junior high student, completed her high school equivalency and is a recent recipient of the GED certificate.

The classes are designed for adults who meet the following requirements: 18 years old, out of school at least one year and did not complete high school. The GED equivalent is equivalent to a high school diploma and is awarded after the student passes the GED test. The adult basic education classes may be started at any time the course is underway and individuals may progress at their own rate.

Taught by Thelma Ruth Childs, the course offers night classes from 7-9 p.m. at Rex Reeves School Cafeteria. The first evening class for the spring session is enrolling on Feb. 3.

A new morning class will be offered during the spring and will be meeting from 9-11 a.m. at the Canyon Independent School District's Administrative Offices, 508 16th St. The class will begin on Feb. 4.

All persons interested in either the morning or evening classes are encouraged to attend the first class sessions this week.

Local merchants pay sales taxes

Canyon merchants pay their state sales taxes more faithfully than some merchants in other areas do, if court judgments are any criteria.

Only one Canyon resident was included on a list of 283 delinquent taxpayers that Bob Bullock, state comptroller, made public this week.

According to Bullock's list, Clarence Maynard of Canyon has been ordered by state courts to pay $216.50 in back sales tax. The list also includes W.F.J. Luker and Phyllis J. Luker of Happy, with a judgment listed of $1,225.65.

In contrast, 12 Hereford taxpayers are listed as delinquent, while Perryton has seven non-payers and Dumas has six persons delinquent in sales taxes.

Fiona, Tulia and Shamrock each have five persons listed, while Dalhart and Dimmitt have four apiece and Panhandle has one.

About 160 Amarillo merchants are considered delinquent.

According to Bullock, the names of some 6,500 persons were made public across the state after recent attempts to collect back taxes failed.

"This isn't a debt to a bureaucracy," said Bullock. "This is money these delinquents owe the taxpayers of this state. Every penny of it was collected from taxpayers who thought it was going to their state and city governments. Instead, it went into someone's pocket."

Freshmen boys take invitational tourney

The freshman boys white team came from behind to win the CJHS Boys Invitational Tournament last weekend, beating Borger South 51-50.

This was the first tournament championship for a Canyon

Junior High team since 1973. The ninth grade boys white are 14-5 for the season and have not lost a home game this year.

"It's not the individuals that are pulling us through, but team play," said Coach Lewis Tversky.

grades participated in the tournament played here last weekend. The freshmen defeated Plainview, Borger North and Borger South to win the first place trophy. Earlier this year, they won second in the Borger tournament.

Canyon's eighth grade purple team took third place in the tournament.

Loop 335 due commission eye

Randall County commissioners will consider again Monday a resolution concerning the funding and designation of route for Loop 335 which is to run around Amarillo in the future.

Commissioners went on record last year urging the state to designate a route for the loop. A portion of the route in Randall County is already designated.

Commissioners will meet a 1 p.m. to discuss:

- *equipment needs for the county tax office.
- *purchase of file cabinets for the district clerk's office.
- *a resolution concerning the Amarillo Urban Transportation Study.
- *federally-funded county employment.
- *installation of pay telephones in the courthouse and courthouse annex.

Secret buyers to receive cash

Twenty-two local merchants have a "secret" sale set for Monday, Feb. 2, with the purchase of a variety of "secret" items entitling customers to cash prizes.

Participating merchants have selected their own "secret" items from among merchandise advertised as First Monday Specials in today's issue of the Canyon Sunday News.

Customers will learn if their special is a "secret" selection from the salesperson after the purchase is completed, according to rules of the promotion. All customers purchasing the "secrets" will be awarded cash prizes.

Merchants participating in the promotion are Johnston's Trustworthy Hardware; Tweedede; Williams, Etc.; Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio; Towne Shoppe; Anthony's; West Texas Western Store; Carriage House Shoes; The Jewelry Store; Linde's Fashions; Cheatham Clothiers; Village Shoppe; Deon's; Blue Daisy; Byrd Pharmacy; Lane's TV & Appliance; Thompson's of Canyon, Inc.; Furniture Galleries; Tina's Fashions; Martha June's Gifts & Collectables; H.R.'s Flowers and Gifts; and The Shell's Pharmacy.

Eagles win berth in play-off

Canyon's Eagles won the first half of their district Friday night and assured themselves a spot in the district play-offs.

The Eagles downed Perryton's Rangers 62-60 in a Perryton game.

The win extended the Eagle win record to 21-6 for the season and 4-0 for the district.

Coach B.B. Kendrick said the Eagles began Friday night's outing slowly and were hurt early by the injury of Hoss Ratliff, who apparently suffered a sprained ankle.

The Rangers led the Eagles 13-8 at the end of the first quarter. But, the Eagles made a strong comeback during the second period and led 31-27 at the half.

Nephew remembers Faulkner as family man though famous

By LAURIE TELFAIR

His biographer and scholar considers William Faulkner to be America's greatest writer of fiction but to his nephew, the author was "Brother Will," a relative untouched by the fame accorded him.

Dr. Joseph Blotner, professor of English at the University of Michigan, who has published a two-volume biography of Faulkner and James Faulkner, the novelist's nephew from Oxford, Miss., spent several days last week at West Texas State University, lecturing on the "Life and Works of William Faulkner."

More scholarly research is being done now on Faulkner than on any other writer except Shakespeare, said Blotner. Two of the writer's major contributions to literature lay in his use of regional history, and his innovations in the writing craft, the researcher said.

Blotner is completing a second book of selected letters of Faulkner, to be published this fall.

Faulkner's nephew, James — who bears a strong family resemblance, except he insists, for the eyes — remembers his uncle as a family man.

"He always put his family first," Faulkner said. Fame didn't really touch the author in his home town, Faulkner said. "It's a small town and how you make your livelihood, really doesn't matter to anyone."

At one time, three of the Faulkner brothers lived with their families at their parents' home and that is when James said he first remembers knowing his uncle well.

"My father, John, was going to engineering school at the time and Brother Will was trying to write so he wasn't making much money and Dean was there," he explained, all living with his grandfather and grandmother on the campus of the University of Mississippi in Oxford where his grandfather was an administrator.

Using slides, James Faulkner showed many of the buildings and people from his uncle's life and Blotner explained how they were woven into the writings of William Faulkner.

The first William C. Faulkner, the author's great-grandfather, who was called by the family "the old Colonel," became the model for the colonel in Faulkner's early novel "Sartoris."

Most of Faulkner's stories were set in the fictitious Mississippi

Name of new FAB thrills benefactor

Mary Moody Northen, chairman of the Moody Foundation, said she was thrilled about having the new $2.7 million West Texas State University fine arts building named after her, according to WTSU President Lloyd I. Watkins.

Watkins talked to Mrs. Northen after the Jan. 26 Board of Regents meeting where the selection was approved.

With her encouragement, the Moody Foundation has given more than $750,000 to organizations in the Amarillo-Canyon area, of which $250,000 went to the WTSU building, $50,000 to the musical-drama "TEXAS" and $250,000 to the High Plains Baptist Hospital.

"She likes the Panhandle and she likes what we are doing out here in the field of education and our cultural interests," says Mrs. Ralph Randel of Panhandle, who is a personal friend of Mrs. Northen.

The first time Mrs. Northen became interested in the Panhandle was in 1968, when she attended a production of Paul Green's musical-drama "TEXAS," according to Mrs. Randel.

"She wanted to donate to the university to help the School of Fine Arts and to aid the production 'TEXAS,'" said Mrs. Randel, "because she realized that the greatest contribution she could make would be to help build a strong fine arts center on the plains of Texas."

Mrs. Northen is the oldest daughter of the late W.L. Moody, Jr. and Libby Rice Shearn Moody, who founded the Moody Foundation in 1942 to assist the educational institutions and the arts and humanities in Texas.

Since that time, the Moody Foundation has given more than $70 million to Texas organizations, and $2.2 million to the Texas Panhandle.

After her father's death in 1943, Mrs. Northen succeeded him as head of a vast financial empire, including the American National Insurance Company of Galveston and Moody National Bank.

She has donated her time and money to numerous projects. She is the only woman member of the board of trustees of Virginia Military Institute, and the only woman honorary alumnus of that institution. The University of Texas School of Business lauded her as the "First Lady of Business" by naming the new wing of their School of Business in her honor.

Her honorary degrees are doctor of humanities from Texas Wesleyan, doctor of humane letters from Southern Methodist University, doctor of laws from St. Edwards of Austin and doctor of fine arts from Our Lady of the Lake University.

county of Yoknapatawpha with its county seat of Jefferson.

This was a combination, James Faulkner said, of Tippah County, about 50 miles north of Oxford where the Faulkners originally lived, and Lafayette County, which includes Oxford.

Many of the author's relatives and friends, as well as the old homes and buildings of the area, were incorporated into the Faulkner stories.

James Faulkner is greatly interested in Western history, so he and Blotner took time Wednesday for a hurried tour of the Panhandle-Plains Museum.

George Stevens received notification Wednesday that he has been appointed to serve as the postmaster for facilities at Denver City.

Stevens has served with the Canyon Post Office for 21 years since beginning his postal career in late July of 1955. During his career here he served as a carrier from 1955-60 when he was promoted to a clerk's position. He was advanced to office manager at the local postal facility in October 1971.

George Stevens first came to Canyon in 1937 to attend the demonstration school of West Texas State and returned with his wife, Shirley, 11 years later to set up their residence here in 1948.

Stevens served with the United States Navy during World War II then served with the Naval Reserves while attending college. He returned to active duty for a 14-month period during the Korean Conflict.

Prior to his first postal position in 1955, Stevens sold insurance locally and worked for Sears Roebuck and Company. He was employed as a tax deputy for Bill Money, tax collector, when he learned that he had been accepted for the civil service position with the local postal facility.

The Stevens have raised four sons, Ronnie, Wallace, Phil and Wilkes, who were all educated in the Canyon Public Schools. Their son, Ronnie, and his wife are presently in Tucson, Ariz. Wallace, who has recently returned from service with the U.S. Army, is residing at home and the two other sons, Phil and Wilkes, and their wives are residing in Canyon. The Stevens' grandchild, Tonya Kay, is the daughter of Phil and his wife, Pam.

Stevens' wife, Shirley, will remain in Canyon while he locates housing and gets arrangements settled at Denver City.

Justly proud of his promotion to Denver City's postmaster, Stevens says that his only regret is that he'll be leaving a lifetime of friends in Canyon.

Stevens and his wife are active members of the First Baptist Church in Canyon and have been involved in various activities in the city. He is a charter member of the Evening Lions Club, serves on the director's board for the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, and is a director on the Canyon Division of the Opportunity Plan at West Texas State University.

In earlier years, Stevens was directly involved with the Little League and Babe Ruth baseball programs for a period of 12 years and served a tenure as the post commander for VFW Post 5681.

Life good for celebrant

Life in America has been good for Maria Cecilia Hernandez who will be celebrating her 79th birthday on February 11.

Mrs. Hernandez came to America in 1912 with her parents, immigrating to this country from Old Mexico.

Her parents were laborers in this country until 1922 when they made the return trip to their homeland. Maria had meanwhile married and "never returned to Mexico."

Her husband was also an immigrant from Mexico and following their marriage he started working with the railroad. He continued working with the railroad until becoming disabled around 1940, when the couple moved to Canyon.

The Hernandez reared four sons and three daughters. Three of the couple's sons, Mauro, Robert and Anicto, are still living in the Canyon vicinity.

Among descendants of Mrs. Hernandez are 17 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. Her husband died in 1963. She has made her home with her son, Mauro, since his return from World War II.

Mrs. Hernandez noted that her life has been better since coming to the United States and she is "well pleased with Canyon."

Library's promotion goal of supporters

Less than two years old, the "Friends" organization for the Canyon City Library is designed to provide special services and funds for the library's use which are beyond present city funding of the library.

Membership dues to the "Friends" are used for further promotion and improvements of the library facilities, which are soon to be relocated within the Canyon City Hall Complex.

The "Friends" are a voluntary service organization and aid in developing better public understanding of the local library. Several types of memberships are available in the "Friends" including individual and group memberships, along with annual sustaining individual memberships and the lifetime membership.

Charter memberships in the "Friends" will be issued until the move into new library facilities are completed with each charter member's name to be placed in a special charter book. Cover for the charter book is being prepared by local artist, Ann Palmer.

Membership fees are set at $1 for individuals or $5 for clubs and organizations. The annual sustaining individual memberships are $10 while lifetime memberships are issued on contributions of $100 or more.

Renewals and new memberships are presently being taken by Mrs. Crews (Zoe) Henry, membership chairman, and following members of the committee including Conway Kuykendall, Mrs. Larry Holman, Miss Nora Killian, Mrs. Ishmael Hill and Mrs. Lon Fanning.

"Lots of folks don't even know of the services which we have access to," related the local unit president, Mrs. Steven Hines.

Among the services available through the local cancer unit are transportation to and from physician's offices, hospital and clinic for diagnosis and treatment.

Also included in the unit's service are information and counseling through rehabilitation programs for patients as well as equipment for loan to patients including hospital beds, wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, and bedside commode chairs.

he will not seek a second term on the county commission, and Lindsey's announcement has caused the most political activity of any race in the county.

Canyon farmer Bob Henry and City Commissioner Jim Christopher have filed for election to the office subject to the Democratic May primary election. Henry was an unsuccessful candidate for the post four years ago and Christopher is a veteran city commissioner.

Mrs. Audrey Bruce, tax assessor-collector for Randall County, has announced she will seek election to another term subject to the Republican primary. Bob Burks, an Amarillo Realtor, has filed for election to the office subject to the Democratic primary.

Sheriff Cliff Longest, finishing out his first full term as sheriff, has filed for re-election on the Democratic ticket. He has not yet drawn an opponent.

Dist. Atty. Randall Sherrod, appointed to his post by Gov. Briscoe in December 1974, has also announced he will seek election on the Democratic ticket. Sherrod has also not drawn an opponent.

Local races have yet to become involved with the filing deadline due in early March and election in early April.

Canyon Mayor J. Manly Bryan has already announced he will seek re-election to another term on the city commission, and he has yet to draw opposition.

Incumbent Commissioner H.R. Fulton, Jr., announced Friday he will seek re-election to his seat on the commission. He, likewise, has not drawn an opponent.

Incumbent Christopher will vacate his seat with his candidacy for county commission.

No one has yet announced to seek election to Christopher's seat.

There has been no activity so far in the upcoming school board elections. Two seats, occupied now by Richard Pruett and Harold Erwin, will be filled at the April balloting.

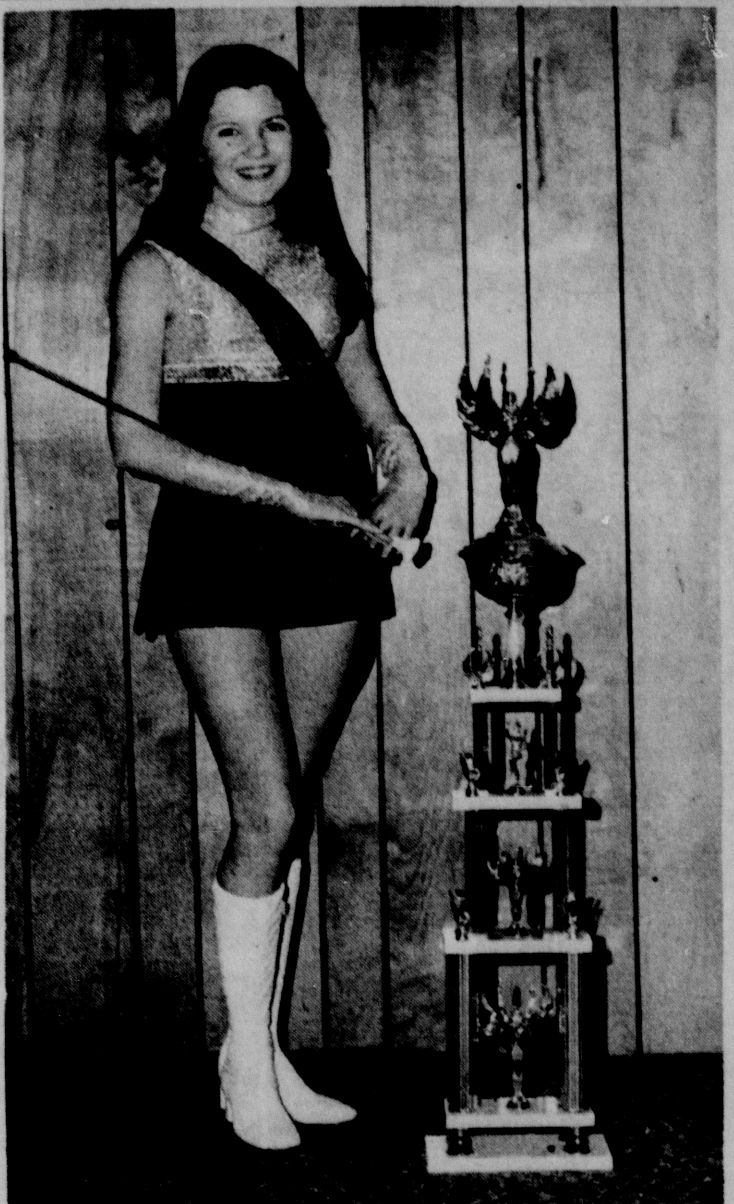

Neither Pruett nor Erwin has yet announced their intentions.

Kennedys have baby daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kennedy of the Ponderosa Apartments in Canyon announce the Jan. 14 birth of a daughter, Candace Lynn, at Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon.

The baby girl weighed 7 pounds, three-fourths ounce and measured 21 inches at birth. Her father is a freshman geology major at West Texas State University.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester O. Kennedy of Olton are the paternal grandparents and the foster maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Kennedy of Jenkins, Mo., as the maternal grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sprinkles of Seligman, Mo., are both deceased.

"Miss Golden Spread Twirler, '76" was the honor received by Kim Landrum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Landrum of Canyon, in a recent Golden Spread Twirlers Association contest held at West Texas State with twirlers competing from a three-state area. A Canyon High School sophomore, Miss Landrum was winner of the beginning senior division. She is a CHS twirler, oboe player with the CHS band, and was recently selected to the All-Region Band.

old to be of much use any longer in the world when we can only find fault with them for their 'frivolities' and cannot understand nor help them solve their problems...

"This move (the organization of Canyon's first troop), if properly carried out, will go far toward solving the problems of boy-life, which must be solved if we would make of our boys, men prepared for the duties of life..."

Former scouts, Hickman says, have gone on to become leading citizens in Canyon and throughout the country.

And, the program, he notes has not changed in connection with the emphasis on character building and moral strength.

"Our purpose is still the same," Gerald Strain, district scout executive in Amarillo, said. "The stress on citizenship, character building and mental and physical fitness has not changed since 1910."

While the basic purpose and goals of scouting have not changed in 66 years, many of the programs of scouting have changed, he said.

New merit badge programs which call for study of such things as atomic energy, oceanography and space exploration, are now available side by side with the more traditional programs of camping and cooking and first aid.

Nor has scouting in Canyon changed particularly, except in terms of the numbers involved in the program.

Hickman, who took over Troop 31 with 10 boys on Jan. 1, said his troop meets every Monday night at 7 p.m. at the Methodist Church fellowship hall for a regular troop meeting and other activities including swimming or rifle range.

This Monday the troop will meet at the WTSU pool at 6:30 p.m.

In addition, he schedules one camp-out and one hike per month and a summer camping program.

Ski trips and other weekend activities are also planned.

Fulton and Magness also have similar programs, with Troop 66 meeting Monday nights at 7 p.m. in the First Christian Church and Troop 132 meeting Monday nights at 7 p.m. in the youth activities building of the First Baptist Church.

Summer activities, the scout leaders said, are coordinated so as not to interfere with Kids, Inc., or other summer programs.

could be a bond issue or another rate increase or federal grants." The increased sanitation rate is 14 cents less than Metcalf asked for to change the residential areas from individual trash collection to a containerized system. The reduction may mean that it will take longer to complete the switch, he said.

Buying the three trucks and approximately 700 containers required over a six year period will cost between $250,000 and $275,000, Metcalf estimates. It will take one year on the new rates before enough money is accumulated to begin implementation.

With the rates set Thursday night, Metcalf had to complete by today preparation of a preliminary budget. Because the preliminary budget proposal was completed so late, it is not expected.

Canyon's Churchlife

"Thinking Through Our Faith" is the title for a new series of sermons at First Presbyterian Church of Canyon. The series is based on the book "Christian Doctrine" by Shirley C. Guthrie and today's worship will deal with theology and tradition under the title "Who Are You?"

A program titled "Star Power" will be held at the Episcopal Center this evening by the United Campus Ministry. The program will follow a 50-cent of the famous name trains on the Santa Fe operated through Canyon.

The Higdon family moved to Canyon in 1917 and soon after Mr. Higdon started to operate a horse drawn bus and meet the incoming trains. Anyone could ride the bus to the college or other points. If they had baggage he took their checks, got his wagon and delivered it. Many students arrived and departed by train and Mr. Higdon would take their trunks to the dormitories and place them in their rooms.

His son, Marion, delivered Western Union telegrams around town from the depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols and children, Margaret (Mrs. Loyd Devin) and Dean arrived in Canyon with the new automatic signals and interlocker plant at the depot. Nick was signal maintainer here for many years. His territory was between Umbarger and west Amarillo and was taken care of by using gasoline motor-car operating on the rails. Nick was scoutmaster many years and Mrs. Nichols will be remembered as evening receptionist at the Nebbett Hospital.

During the early years the Santa Fe ran many trains with prospective land buyers to Canyon. After buying land they would go back and load the livestock, household goods, and equipment in box cars for the trip to their new home. The man and one 16-year-old boy were allowed to ride in the box cars, with the rest of the family coming by passenger train.

One of the first agents at Canyon City was O.C. Davis, then C.C. Miller, followed in 1912 by R. McGee, who was agent until he passed away in 1938. Harry Campbell then bid in the agency, coming here from Spearman retiring in 1960. Chester Huff was then agent until he passed away at which time I was agent until my retirement in 1974. The present agent is Russell Guill.

The Pritchard brothers were early day employees here at Canyon: Elmer first, followed by Ewing (Shorty), then Sherman (Banjie). As business declined they went to other stations. Elmer was cashier at Canadian many years. Shorty was at Amarillo and Banjie at Pampa.

Worth Jennings Sr. resigned his position as Santa Fe cashier at Canyon when he was appointed sheriff of Randall County in 1911.

I arrived in Canyon Sept. 1, 1949. Mrs. Hines, Sandra and Steve arrived a few days later. My first job at Canyon was swing operator, relieving three days as operator and Saturday and Sunday as agent. Business was good and I have sold as much as $2,000 worth of tickets in one day besides all the other duties of an agent. When I retired I had put in 43 years with Santa Fe, starting as a teenager during the Depression.

New coach hired

Van Wilhelm, an assistant coach at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford for the past three years, has been named to a similar position at West Texas State University, head coach and athletic director Gene Mayfield announced Wednesday.

The addition of Wilhelm, a former player at Amarillo High School under coaches Bum Phillips and Burl Bartlett, completes the Buff football coaching staff for 1976. Earlier this week, John Mize was added to the staff. Mize worked at Texas A&M this past season.

Wilhelm played his college football at North Colorado after a junior college stint at Murray State College in Tishomingo, Oklahoma. His coaching background includes two years as a graduate assistant at Southwestern while he completed work on his masters degree, and assistant positions at Hooker, Sunray, and Bridge City high schools.

"Everyone I have talked to is high on this young fellow," Mayfield said in making the announcement. "I have known him for several years myself, starting when I was at Borger and he was playing for Amarillo High."

Wilhelm is married and has two children. He will report to work at WTSU on Jan. 31.

Mize has already started work for the Buffs. He's currently recruiting in the central Texas area.

Musical director Doug McCause rehearses with Leslie Gallemore, who plays the title roll of Dolly in the CHS production Feb. 19-21 of "Hello Dolly."

4-H scene: Youths sought for stock judging teams

I am proud to announce that I have a very strong interest in livestock judging teams. I will work with and train these teams myself. If you haven't picked up the material from me on livestock judging, you need to come by my office and get it soon!

There are two teams, a junior team and a senior team. To be on the junior team you have to be 9 years old as a 4-H member. Seniors have to be 14 as of January 1, 1976 and not over 19 years of age. I will only be able to have 4 members on each team. All will judge until about 2 weeks prior to the District contest. I will keep all of your scores and average them at the set time, this will determine who will judge at District. I encourage each of you to get the judging material and study it. We will have some in-class sessions for orientation purposes. Do your best, try hard, and ask questions - you will learn this way.

We will try to practice every Saturday until district, if at all possible. The more classes of livestock we can look at and judge, the better we will get. We will be going to Warren Hereford Ranch, Hale's Angus Farm, and West Texas State University farm east of Canyon.

I have had three semesters of judging livestock and feel that I can help these 4-Hers a good deal. I do not claim to be a super judge. I may have some assistance from a W.T. judging team member. We will be judging breeding and market (fat) hogs, breeding and market sheep, and breeding and market cattle. Judging is a very good method to sharpen your eye and giving reasons helps you to be able to explain why you placed a class a certain way. It also helps you explain to your parents why you had to stay out until 2 a.m. last Saturday morning, etc., etc!

With effort on your part I can help you help yourselves. See ya next week!!

Faith center

program Tues.

West Texas State University Faith Student Center will present "He Restored My Soul" at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Bible Education Building and at 7 p.m. Sunday at Faith Chapel.

The film tells the true story of Merrill Womach, a gospel singer whose face and hands were critically burned when 108 gallons of aviation fuel exploded following the crash of his private plane.

He tells the story after experiencing over 50 operations and coming near death.

Admission is free.

Soil survey meeting set

A meeting for area builders, developers, local government officials and others will be held Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. at the civic complex to demonstrate the uses of a county soil survey.

Sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service, the meeting is designed to show how the survey can be helpful to persons planning land use.

Herb Bruns, a soil scientist from Hereford and Dan Hucakabe, an Amarillo engineer, will be guest speakers.

"Most people think that a soil survey is of interest only to farmers and ranchers," said Bill Casteel, district conservationist. "But basically, it provides information about physical properties that can be applied to other things. For example, it gives the soil type by name, the shrink-swell characteristics, the corrosiveness to uncoated metal. All these things a builder would need to know."

Casteel said the survey of Randall County was completed in 1970 and is available to everyone.

Fair entry deadline for youths is Feb. 13

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum History Fair entry deadline has been set for Feb. 13.

The three categories of competition are elementary level (fifth and sixth grade), junior high and high school.

The themes of the entries must either be based on Texas Panhandle history or US Bicentennial history.

The entries will be judged on historical accuracy, neatness and how well the theme is carried out. They must be three-dimensional, deal with a specific story and be sponsored by the school.

Two prizes will be awarded to each age group, with one prize for the best overall project.

The projects will be set up in the main museum building on the second floor on Feb. 16-17, and displayed on Feb. 19-20. Students will pick up their projects from Feb. 21-24.

For more information, telephone Mrs. Patti Kilpatrick, museum educational director, at 656-2567.
